

Utah Safe at Home Program

The Safe at Home Program gives a substitute address to:

- People who have experienced child abuse, domestic violence, stalking, human trafficking, and sexual assault
- Parents or guardians of child victims
- Guardians of disabled victims
- People living with victims or people who have experienced abuse, trafficking, or assault

If you are in the program you can use your substitute address for state and local government agencies and the courts.

In order to apply, you must meet with a Certified Safe at Home Program Assistant to complete an application. More information about the Safe at Home Program, including a list of Certified Program Assistants is available online at www.safeathome.utah.gov.
